LET THEM ARBITRATE.

The wise plan to settle all points in dispute is to arbitrate. There does not seem to be much doubt that the Burlington, in one sense of the word, will get the upper hand of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; and yet the Burlington will not be in a condition to flatter itself over what may seem to the company to be temporary success. The road is giving the public very poor service. New and incompetent men are managing the engines in a majority of cases. Engines are being burnt out. Traffic is leaving the company; and public sentiment, if it refuses to settle the differences with its engineers on a basis of fairness, will be against the road.

There is no doubt the brotherhood has a right to complain against the company. The engineers on the Burlington want the same treatment that the engineers receive from the Northwestern, and from the St. Paul, and nothing more. The Burlington refused. Mr. Arthur then proposed to leave the disputed points to three persons—one to be selected by the Burlington, one by the Brotherhood, and the third by these two. The Burlington refused. Then Mr. Arthur, being confident in the justice of his claim, offered to leave the whole question to three railway managers, and to promise that the Brotherhood should abide by the decision of the three managers, and still the Burlington refused.

The governor of Iowa urges arbitration. Public sentiment is in favor of arbitration. The business public want the matter settled by arbitration. Fair play demands that the grievances of the Brotherhood shall be settled by arbitration.

The point gained by the order issued from the United States circuit court compelling the Wabash to handle the Burlington's freight does not settle the trouble nor bring fair play. The trouble still exists, and the old wrongs are not righted. Judge Gresham may order the Wabash to receive the Burlington cars, but that does not mend matters so long as the engineers have a just complaint against the company. If the Burlington refuses to arbitrate or listen to the complaint of the engineers; then it is in the wrong. If the engineers strike on either roads against which they have no grievance, then they are wrong and will be condemned by public sentiment.

It is surprising how the democrats who prepare tariff bills shy clear of interfering with many of the products of the south. Mills, in his bill, leaves out coal and different classes of iron because Virginia, and Alabama, and Georgia, do not want the tariff on these products disturbed. And Mr. Randall, in his new scheme, leaves sugar on the taxed list. If there is any one article imported into this country that should be imported free, it is sugar. It would not only reduce the surplus, but it would benefit every condition of people. But Louisiana is a democratic state, and produces a little sugar every year, and in order to keep on the right side of the Louisiana democrats, the tariff on sugar must be retained. This, you see, is tariff reform.

The Montreal Gazette say of Secretary Bayard's proposed compromise and surrender of American rights on the fisheries question: "We secure every right for which we have contended in the correspondence of the last two years. The Americans are debarred from the 'touch and trade' and transhipping privileges. We have obtained everything we ever claimed." The Canadians should not congratulate themselves so soon. Fortunately this treaty which is the cause of so much felicitation on their part has not been ratified by the United States senate and what is more, is not likely to be.

A United States war ship has arrived at the capitol of Morrocco and the captain has made a demand for the immediate release of a Moor who was under American protection, but, all the same, was imprisoned. In view of the present condition of our navy a war with Morrocco would just about give this republic all it could attend to.

"It is said" the democratic managers are holding nightly meetings endeavoring to checkmate the republicans. They will probably spring Dr. Robinson's hog ordinance on the republicans before election, or still worse the old cow ordinance.

A government order has been published in Denmark prohibiting the importation from America of bacon and steam lard and other undressed pork products. The order goes into effect immediately.

"It is said" that the Recorder is somewhat worried fearing the republicans will capture the city government this spring Republicans will hardly follow the advice of that paper.

The democratic state central committee will hold a secret session at the Plankinton house, Milwaukee, on Thursday of this week.

Can a Man Swallow a Cannon-Ball?

Well, "that depends." He can if his throat is large enough and the cannon-ball not too large. The question really seems worthy of some consideration in view of the size of some of the pills that are prescribed for suffering humanity. Why not throw them "to the dogs," and take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets? Small, sugar-coated, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, in glass, and always fresh.

NEW YORK, March 13th—The blizzard which has prevailed here during last night and this morning has badly crippled the railways and telegraph. Trains are moving irregularly to-day.

FIVE BADLY HURT.

The Thaw Causes a Bad Accident on the Erie Road at Scio, N. Y.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 13.—A serious accident occurred at Scio, on the Erie railroad, Sunday morning. At a crossing twenty rods east of the depot the forward drivers of the engine left the track, the train grazing the brick water tank at the end of the station platform. The train rushed past the station, carrying away the west half of the platform and striking the wooden water tank at the west end, which brought the train to a stop. The track was very slippery, and the air-brakes failed to check the train. The only cause that could be given for the accident was a depression of one of the rails at a joint, due to the softening of the ground by the thaw. Five persons were badly hurt.

The St. Louis Sangerbund.

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—The managers of the Sangerbund have made the following selections of soloists for the coming festival: Mrs. Lilli Lehmann-Kalisch, soprano; Mrs. Anna Lanlow, contralto; Max Alvary, first tenor; Paul Kalisch, second tenor; Ernst Fischer, bass; Emilo Hugar, baritone; Miss Adele Aus der Ohe, piano accompanist. The chorus will consist of 3,500 voices, representing more than 100 societies from eighteen States, under the direction of Prof. Egmont Froliche, of St. Louis.

Arkansas Convicts Abused.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 13.—Investigation into the abuses of convict miners at Coal Hill, Ark., show that convicts have been beaten and flogged to death; that Warden Grafford has made a practice of making the men fight, and that in one case the warden caused a desperado to kick a fellow-convict to death. The people are greatly excited and threaten to lynch Grafford.

A Medal for Sadi-Carnot.

NEW YORK, March 13.—The memorial medallion designed to commemorate the inauguration of President Carnot of the French Republic and which the colony of natives of Alsace-Lorraine, in this city, ordered to be made, was presented yesterday afternoon to the representatives of the French Consul to be forwarded to President Carnot.

A Fatal Error.

MATTOON, Ill., March 12.—James Harden, a wealthy farmer who resided at Rural Retreat, in the southeast part of Douglas County, took a dose of strychnine at 4 p. m. Sunday, mistaking it for quinine, and it caused his death an hour and a half later.

IN THE JUDGE'S HANDS.

The Wabash Case Argued Before Judge Gresham.

ANSWER TO THE BURLINGTON'S PETITION.

Receiver McNulta Says He Has Notified the "Q." Officials That He Will Transport Their Cars—The Judge's Decision Reserved.

TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT.

CHICAGO, March 13.—The case of the Burlington road against the Wabash line and Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers came up before Judge Gresham in the United States Circuit court yesterday afternoon, proceedings being begun promptly at 2 o'clock. It will be remembered that the proceedings last week were in the shape of an application by the Burlington road for an order on the receiver of the Wabash line to handle Burlington cars and freight, and also for an order to summon P. M. Arthur to show cause why he should not be attached for contempt of court in having ordered the Wabash men not to handle Burlington cars. An affidavit from Manager Stone, of the Burlington road, was read. Mr. Stone averred that since the filing of the original petition in the case he had discovered a telegram sent by P. M. Arthur to M. W. Barnum at Omaha, the said Barnum being chairman of the grievance committee of the Union Pacific road. In this telegram, the affidavit says, Mr. Arthur ordered Mr. Barnum to keep the Union Pacific engineers from handling Burlington freight or cars. It was also asserted by Mr. Stone that Arthur had issued the same instructions to the Wabash engineers. All of this the Burlington people say they will be able to prove if given an opportunity to do so, and the affidavit concludes with an application for the appointment of a master, who shall have power to send for telegrams, etc., and to take testimony in the matter.

Robert T. Lincoln, the attorney for the Wabash railway, then filed his answer to the petition of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railway. In the answer the respondent admits that he, in his official capacity, is subject to the orders of the court, and also that he is subject to the obligations and duties imposed upon common carriers by the Inter-State law or other statutes. He admits that he has been in the habit of interchanging loaded cars with the petitioner, but not to any great extent; on the contrary, the interchange of cars has been a very small and unimportant part of the business transacted. The respondent says that the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad is not engaged in operating a system of railways which forms with that operated by your respondent a continuous or track line or lines leading from one or more sections of the country to others, but on the contrary is operating a system which enters and occupies much of the Territory tributary to the railway operated by respondent and its associated lines, and which is a rival system to that of respondent, and is directly competitive at many points.

The answer admits that they declined to undertake the hauling of the Burlington freight-cars, tendered March 6, but denies that such refusal was, as alleged in the Burlington's petition, under specific instructions originating with the Wabash, whereby that company had directed that its agents and employes should absolutely and unconditionally refuse to receive any loaded cars from, or deliver any loaded cars to, the petitioner, or disregard its obligations as a connecting carrier.

The answer then goes on to state that the relations between the Wabash and their engineers and firemen were harmonious, and that they being solicitous that their traffic should not be interrupted by reason of any complication growing out of affiliation and friendly feeling of the engineemen in his employ toward the engineemen who had left the employ of the petitioner, and for that reason the orders were issued as a temporary measure. The answer then says that the orders not to handle "Q." freight were withdrawn on Saturday last, and the following was issued:

"The business of receiving and interchanging cars and traffic by this road with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad and all of the roads of that system will go on upon the same terms and conditions as those upon which similar business is done by this road with other connecting railroads."

The above order, the answer says, has been in full force since its issuance and will be continued and executed. In conclusion the Wabash denies having had any business transactions or communications from P. M. Arthur, or any one representing him, and prays that the petition be dismissed at petitioners' cost.

Mr. Wirt Dexter presented the case for the Burlington, and argued the requirements of the law of common carriers, called attention to the duties it imposed, and the evils resultant from a non-performance of those duties. He then took up the question of conspiracy among the engineers and firemen to force the Wabash to fail in its duty as a common carrier, and called attention to the fact that the court was operating the road, and such interference was practically a contempt of the court. He cited at length from cases bearing on the points made, and urged the court to protect its receiver in the discharge of the duties imposed on him.

Mr. Lincoln saw nothing left in the case for action on the part of the court. The receiver, so far as appeared at least, was faithfully performing all the duties devolving upon him; the answer left nothing of which the Burlington could complain; and he saw nothing for the court to do in the matter but dismiss the application. As to the general public policy involved in strikes and labor agitations, he has not considered this the time, nor the place, nor the manner for its consideration, nor did he consider it within the purview of the court in this proceeding. As to Mr. Arthur and a large number of men unknown, who were alleged to be conspiring in secret conclaves, he knew nothing. He had not been retained by them, did not even know them, and thought if they were to be tried they should first be brought into court and given an opportunity to answer.

General Smith called the attention of the court to the fact that in all cases cited by learned counsel opposing there had been specific, overt acts proved, while in the case at bar no unlawful proceedings appeared. He maintained that if there had been an infraction, or attempted infraction, of the Inter-State Commerce law, the proper remedy, as provided by that law, was by appeal to the commission before applying to the court for relief. He concurred fully in the view of his colleague that there was no tenable issue raised by the answer, and he saw no course for the court but to dismiss the application.

Mr. Crawford closed for the Burlington. He hoped the efforts to belittle the issues involved would not be successful. He believed they would not in this court. There was still much left in the case which demanded the attention of the court. True, General McNulta had rescinded the objectionable order and had issued an order that all freight from the Burlington be received, but there was no assurance that he could enforce the order. There was no evidence that he had conferred with his engineers, or that they would obey the order. Therefore, he thought a decree should be entered, in express terms, ordering the performance of this duty by the officers of the court who are engaged in operating it, so that an attachment for contempt would lie, if it was not obeyed, and every engineer or fireman, he contended, was an officer of the court for the operation of the railroad temporarily operated by it.

Mr. Crawford was asked by Judge Gresham if he thought the receiver's statement that he would receive the Burlington's cars and forward them was uncandid.

Mr. Crawford—No, your honor; I mean that he will be prevented by this organization of engineers.

The Court—Well, you couldn't punish them in this proceeding. The only ground upon which you can proceed against them would be for interfering in an unlawful way with the receiver in the discharge of his duties as an officer of this court. They could not be punished for a misdemeanor anyway. This organization is a mere association. Take the receiver's answer as it is, and he says he hasn't been interfered with in any way by Mr. Arthur. I will look the case over.

The court then adjourned.

Chief Arthur's absence for several hours from his rooms last night gave rise to a rumor that a conference was in progress between Mr. Arthur and President Perkins. Mr. Arthur, who, it is understood, had been at the theater, denied that any such conference had taken place. It was given out by some of the strikers, however, last night, that the Brotherhood was willing to concede that the Burlington system of classification should be retained to the extent of one year's trial for all engineers before being placed under full pay. Yesterday's court proceedings were regarded by the strikers as a blow to the Burlington.

ST. LOUIS, March 13.—All the railroads terminating in East St. Louis, twelve in number, have stopped handling Burlington freight on account of resolutions adopted to that effect by a meeting of engineers, firemen and brakemen.

IN CONGRESS.

Many Bills and Resolutions Introduced in the House and Senate—Some of the Most Important.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Under the call of States a large number of bills and resolutions were introduced and referred, among them the following:

To provide for the settlement of the debt of the Central Pacific Railway Company (the Hustington bill); directing the Committee on Agriculture to inquire into the expediency of prohibiting the sale of compound as pure lard; for the forfeiture of the Hastings and Dakota railroad land grant in Minnesota; relating to tariff and internal taxation (the Randall bill); for the loan of certain articles to the Columbus (O.) Exposition; to encourage the holding of a National industrial exposition of the products of the colored race; providing for a commission to investigate trusts and for repeal of the protective tariff on all industries belonging to trusts.

Mr. Bayne (Pa.) rising to a question of privilege offered a preamble and resolution, reciting that it was stated that the majority of the Committee on Ways and Means has not only refused oral hearings to producers, manufacturers, and workingmen, but has denied to them a birthright to have their petitions read, and directing the Committee on Rules to make a thorough inquiry into the matter. Mr. Breckinridge (Ky.) raised a point of order against the resolution, that it was not privileged, and the Speaker pro tem sustained the point.

Petitions were presented in the Senate protesting against the reduction of the duty on lumber and salt and from leading wool manufacturers and growers asking legislation to protect the wool interests.

BEECHER'S STORY.

The Diary of the Late Divine Published—His Declarations of Innocence in the Tilton Scandal.

NEW YORK, March 13.—That portion of the late Henry Ward Beecher's diary which bears on the Tilton scandal has just been published. The statement was written a year after the trial had closed, and he stipulates that it should not be published until several months after his death. As a statement of fact, or as a history of the case, the diary differs in no essential particular from the story told by Mr. Beecher on the stand. He declares he was guilty of nothing except error of judgment, and concludes as follows:

"That I have grievously erred in judgment with this perplexed case no one is more conscious than I am. I chose the wrong path and accepted a disastrous guidance in the beginning, and have indeed traveled on a 'rough and ragged edge' in my prolonged efforts to suppress this scandal, which has at last spread so much desolation through the land. But I can not admit that I erred in desiring to keep these matters out of sight. In this respect I appeal to you and to all Christian men to judge whether almost any personal sacrifice ought not to have been made rather than to suffer the morals of an entire community, and especially of the young, to be corrupted by the filthy details of scandalous falsehoods, daily iterated and amplified, for the gratification of impure curiosity and demoralization of every child that is old enough to read."

FATAL COLLISION.

Two Trains on the "L" Road in New York Come Together—An Engineer Killed.

NEW YORK, March 13.—At 7:10 o'clock yesterday morning two trains on the Third Avenue Elevated road collided at Seventy-sixth street station. One train was at the station unloading and taking on passengers with which it was already overcrowded. Owing to snow on the track, the train was unable to start. After it had been standing about twenty minutes, to the horror of all, a train came rushing down the incline from Seventy-fourth street and dashed into the rear car. The engineer of the rear train was killed and a number of passengers were seriously injured.

GERMANY'S POLICY.

Frederick III. Outlines the Principles Which Will Guide Him.

AN IMPORTANT LETTER TO BISMARCK.

He Issues a Proclamation to His Subjects Eulogizing His Dead Father—Preparations for the Funeral of the Late Emperor.

TAKING THE OATH.

BERLIN, March 13.—Deputations from all the regiments yesterday swore allegiance to the new Emperor, Frederick III. The Crown Prince William took the oath with the Second Regiment of guards. It is reported that the Emperor passed a good night, but his appearance has caused a shock to the royal people in Berlin. Every one who has seen him agrees that he is looking very badly. Those who are immediately about the Emperor report that he is better than he was at San Remo. His hearing is exact and he displays unexpected strength. It was reported that he had suffered a relapse, but this is denied. The doctors were opposed to his coming to Berlin, even for his father's funeral. Empress Augusta gave audience Monday to the physicians who attended the late Emperor. Her Majesty was much affected during the interview. Sorrow and anxiety have told heavily upon her.

GERMANY'S POLICY.

The Gazette contains the following letter from Emperor Frederick to Prince Bismarck:

"MY DEAR PRINCE: At the commencement of my reign it is necessary for me to turn to you, for many years the trusted chief servant of my late father, who now rests in God. You are the true and courageous counselor who gave to his policy its aim and form and secured its complete fulfillment. You I am in duty bound to warmly thank for the maintenance of my house. You have therefore the right, before all others, to know what are the standpoints which will be the guiding principles for upholding my government. The ordinances, constitution and rights of the empire and of Prussia must, before all, be consulted with veneration and in accordance with the customs of the nation. Frequent changes in state regulations and measures should be avoided as much as possible. The administration of the Imperial Government must be left undisturbed on the firm foundation where the Prussian state has hitherto rested in security. In the empire the constitutional rights of all the Federal Governments must as conscientiously be respected as those of the Reichstag, but from both similar respect for the rights of the Emperor will be demanded.

THE ARMY MUST BE KEPT UP.

"We must keep before our eyes the fact that these mutual rights must serve for promoting the public welfare, which remains the supreme law of the land and which must always be employed in fully satisfying any further and undoubted national requirements which may arise. As the necessary and surest guaranty for the unimpeded execution of these tasks I believe in the unabated maintenance of the warlike power of the country, of my well-tried army and of the navy now growing up, for which important duties have arisen in the requirements of our transoceanic possessions. Both must at all times be maintained by the full completion of their organization, which has already formed the foundation of their fame and [which insures their further effective services. I am resolved to conduct the government, both in the empire and in Prussia, with a conscientious observation of the provisions of the constitutions of each. These have been founded by my predecessors upon the throne upon the wise recognition of irrefutable necessities and the settlement of difficult questions arising in the social and official life of the country, and must be observed on all sides in order to keep their force efficient.

RELIGIOUS TOLERATION.

"I desire that religious toleration, which for centuries past was held sacred by my house, shall continue to be extended to all my subjects of whatever religious community or creed. Every one of them stands equally near my heart, for all have shown equally thorough devotion in times of danger. In accordance with the views of my imperial father I shall warmly support all efforts calculated to improve the economical prosperity of the different classes of society, to conciliate their opposing interests, and as far as it is in my power to alleviate unavoidable distress, without, however, raising the expectation that it is possible to end all the ills of society by state intervention.

EDUCATION PROPER AND IMPROPER.

"Closely bound up with the social question I regard that of education. Efforts to this end must be on a higher scale and more widely accessible. We must avoid crowding dangers by partial education and awakening demands which the economical condition of the nation can not satisfy. We must also be careful that through one-sided efforts for increased knowledge the real task of education shall not remain neglected. Only a generation growing up upon a sound basis, in the fear of God and in simplicity of morals, can possess sufficient rising power to overcome the dangers which in those times of rapid economical movement arise for the entire community through the examples set by highly luxurious individuals.

"It is my will that no opportunity be lost in the public service to offer every opposition to the temptation to improper expenditures.

THE TAXES TO BE INVESTIGATED.

"The self-government granted to the greater and lesser communities in the state I consider beneficial. On the other hand, I would suggest for examination the question whether the right of levying taxes commenced upon these communities, which is exercised by them without sufficient regard for the burden simultaneously imposed by the empire and by the state, may not weigh unfairly upon individuals. In like manner it will have to be considered whether in simplifying matters a change in our organization could not be effected which would permit a reduction in the number of officials and an increase in their emoluments. It will specially gratify me to bring to its full development the work for which German art and science shows so rich a measure of promise.

THE EMPEROR'S HOPE.

"Those are my intentions, and counting upon your well-proved devotion and on support of your tried experience may it be vouchsafed to me thus, with the unanimous co-operation of the states of the empire and with the devoted activity of the representatives of the people, as well as all the officials, and trusting to the help of all classes of population, to lead Germany and Prussia to new honors in pacific development. Careless of splendor and glorious achievements, I shall be content if it can be hereafter said of my government that it was beneficial to my people, useful to my country and blessed to my empire. Your affectionate FREDERICK."

PROCLAMATION BY FREDERICK III.

An extraordinary edition of the Official Gazette contains the following proclamation from Emperor Frederick:

"TO MY PEOPLE: The Emperor has ended his glorious life. In the much-loved father whom I bewail, whom my royal house with me laments in deepest sorrow, the faithful Prussian people have lost their farce-crowned King, the German nation the founder of its unity, and the newly-risen empire the first German Emperor. His illustrious name will remain inseparably bound up with all the greatness of the German Fatherland, in whose new creation the tenacious labor of the Prussian people and Princes has met with its most splendid reward. While King William raised the Prussian army to the heights of its earnest vocation by never-tiring care; a nation's father, he laid a sure foundation for the victories which were afterward gained by German arms under his leadership, and out of which sprang national unity. He thereby secured to the empire a portion of power such as up to that time every German heart had yearned for but had scarcely dared to hope for, and that which he won for his people in honorable death-bringing fight he was destined to strengthen and beneficially increase by the long and peaceful toil of his laborious years of government. Safely resting upon her own strength Germany stands forth esteemed in the council of nations and desires only to enjoy in peaceful progress that which she has won. That this is so we have to thank Emperor William.

"In his never-swavering devotion to duty and his indefatigable activity consecrated to the welfare of the fatherland, he was supported by his reliance upon the self-sacrificing devotion of which the Prussian people have given unvarying proofs and in which all the German races shared. All the rights and duties which are connected with the Crown and my house, and for the time that, according to God's will, may be allotted to me to rule, I am resolved to faithfully preserve with the name now passed to me. Imbued with the greatness of my mission I shall make it my whole endeavor to continue the fabric in the spirit in which it was founded—to make Germany the center of peace and to foster her welfare. To my faithful people, who have stood by my house throughout the history of the whole century in good as in evil days, I offer my unbounded confidence, for I am convinced that on the basis of the unbreakable bond between the sovereign and the people, which, independently of every change in the life of the state, forms the unalterable inheritance of the house of Hohenzollern, my crown rests henceforward as securely as it does upon the devotion of the country to the government of which I am now called dad of which I solemnly promise to be a faithful King, both in happiness and in sorrow.

"May God grant me His blessing and strength to carry out this work, to which my life shall henceforth be devoted.

"FREDERICK.

"BERLIN, March 12, 1888."

THE FUNERAL CEREMONIES.

The greatest interest is taken in the funeral ceremonies and the anxiety to witness this great historical pageant is intense. Windows of residences along the route of the funeral are being offered for the use of spectators at fabulous prices. In one case the use of a single window was sold for $300. Tens of thousands of persons are wearing imitation corn-flowers, the favorite flower of the dead monarch, enveloped in crape. The flowers are being sold on the streets. The coffin at the cathedral containing the remains of the late Emperor is covered with purple velvet, with gold ornaments. On each side of the catafalque are three large candelabra with lighted wax tapers. Tabourets, covered with white silk, worked in gold, are placed beside the coffin. The body is clad in the uniform of the First Regiment of Guards, under a gray cloak; the only decorations on the breast are a star of the Black Eagle and the order of "Pour le Merite." The grand cross of the Iron Cross is suspended from the neck.

On the evening before the death of Emperor William he motioned for the Croquet watch he had worn all his life, and placing it in Prince William's hand closed his fingers over it, intimating that it was a gift to be worn.

The question has arisen whether the Landtag may accept Emperor Frederick's written oath, instead of his personal oath, spoken in an audible voice, as prescribed by the constitution.

DEATH OF HENRY BERGH.

The Founder of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Passes Away—Something About a Man Who Accomplished a Great Work for the Dumb Creation.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Henry Bergh, founder and president of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, died yesterday morning.

Henry Bergh was born in New York in 1823 and educated at Columbia College. He studied law, and wrote several dramas, poems and tales, which are now forgotten. In 1863 he was appointed Secretary of Legation at St. Petersburg. Returning to the United States in 1866, he organized the society with which his name has since been identified. To the protection of dumb animals he devoted all his time and a great part of a very considerable fortune, and he had the satisfaction of seeing the society grow to be a most important institution, with branches in almost every State in the Union. He succeeded in having laws passed by the New York Legislature constituting the officers of the society special policeman, with power to arrest summarily any person who was found committing cruelty to animals by overloading, beating or driving them when in a condition which unfitted them for work. Mr. Bergh did not stop here, but insisting that little children were mere animals, who could not speak for themselves and had not the power to resist abuse or ill-treatment, he threw his protection around them. This led to the prohibition of performances in which the health or lives of little children were endangered, and on several occasions his officers have entered theatrical halls during a performance, arrested the manager and taken child performers from the stage. It was Mr. Bergh who established drinking-fountains at convenient distances apart, not only for horses but for dogs, and the society not only erects the fountains at its own expense but employs men to attend to the horses as they are driven up to drink. The influence of his work has spread into every large city in the United States and Humane societies are everywhere in existence. He was sincere in a work which often brought down upon him sneers and ill-mannered criticism.)

A FAMILY POISONED.

A Mysterious Occurrence in Iowa—Nine Persons Suddenly Taken Ill—Two Die and Fears Entertained for Others.

MASON CITY, Ia., March 13.—Saturday evening, as the family of H. I. Brown, consisting of himself, his wife, six children and a hired man, were seated around the supper table, they were all taken violently sick and in less than an hour Mr. Brown and one of his children were dead. The seven remaining are now very low, and it is thought they can not recover. No cause is assigned. The news reached here last evening, and the matter will be investigated at once. Mr. Brown stood high in the estimation of his neighbors, and while the general belief is that the family partook of poisoned food, many think that the poison was administered by some designing hand.

PERRY, O., March 13.—Sunday night the wife and child of Rudolph Heller were found dead, while Heller lay by their side in a dying condition. As the latter can not recover, it is believed that the mystery will never be solved, but there are strong suspicions that it is a case of murder or suicide by poison.

The President's Physical Condition.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The Herald (Dem.) gives prominence to this: "We hear that recently the President desired to insure his life for $50,000, that negotiations were begun with the agent of a leading New York company, but that the medical examiner, after making his investigation, reported against taking the risk, so the agent was compelled to decline to write a policy. No particulars about the causes why so good an advertisement for an insurance company was foregone have yet leaked out, but the incident has been the the occasion of much speculation."

Sullivan and Mitchell.

LONDON, March 13.—Sullivan, the pugilist, reached London Monday and immediately left for Liverpool. He is reported to have said that hereafter he would confine himself to sparring exhibitions and glove contests, as he considered himself too old to enter the ring. Mitchell's friends are jubilant over the result of the fight.

Substitute for the Blair Educational Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The Committee on Education of the House will meet on Wednesday for final action on the Blair Educational bill. It is said that the chairman of the committee favors and will report a substitute for the measure, based upon the bill introduced early in the session by Mr. Simmons, of North Carolina. This bill proposes to lend to the States, on the basis of illiteracy, $60,000,000, to be invested in Federal or approved State securities, the interest of which sum is to be used for educational purposes. The only restriction is that there shall be no discrimination on account of color.

Three Lives Lost.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., March 13.—A passenger and a freight train collided near here early Monday morning on the Pennsylvania road, and Engineer Robert Gardner and Fireman Mowry, of the passenger, and Brakeman Ernest V. Mercer were killed, and one passenger severely injured. The loss to the road is placed at $75,000.

IOWA GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The House Reduces the Senate's Levy—To Investigate Trusts—Other Business.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 13.—The House yesterday addressed itself to the question of State finances. The Senate bill providing for a half-mill tax for 1888 and 1889, in excess of the regular State levy of two mills, to pay the outstanding warrants was taken up. Wilbur, of the Ways and Means Committee, stated that with the half mill for 1888 there would be a surplus of $647,000 for extraordinary appropriations. Out of this provision must be made for the Insane asylum at Clarinda and the Soldiers' Home, both new institutions. The committee thought that all outstanding warrants could be paid and all the institutions amply provided for by continuing the extra half mill for 1888, and recommended amending the Senate bill by striking out the levy for 1889. Mr. Berryhill, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, believed that the bill should be so amended that the institutions could be given a reasonable sum for improvements after providing for the payment of the floating warrants without the extra half mill levy for two years. So the bill was amended and passed.

McFarland introduced a joint resolution for the appointment of a joint committee to investigate the matter of trusts in Iowa, to report by bill or otherwise. The resolution was adopted.

The House passed the act to resume and reconvey to the United States all lands and rights of lands granted to the State of Iowa by act of Congress approved May 12, 1864, to aid railroad construction, which have not been earned pursuant to law. These lands are situated in northwestern counties, and comprise about 21,000 acres.

The House also passed the bill making it unlawful to use posters on ballots, and providing that names printed on posters pasted over names originally printed on tickets shall not be counted.

The Senate continued debate over the last section of the Railroad bill. Senator McCoy offered an amendment providing that giving or making the same or substantially the same rates over a longer line from any competing point to another competing point as are made over a shorter line to such points shall not be construed to be a preference, advantage or discrimination under the provisions of this act. After an extended discussion the amendment was adopted by a vote of 23 to 21.

ELECTION OF NATIONAL DELEGATES.

Manner in Which They Must Be Chosen Plainly Stated by Chairman Jones, of the Republican Committee.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 13.—In answer to repeated requests for a ruling as to the method of electing Congressional district delegates to the next Republican National convention Mr. B. F. Jones, chairman of the National Republican Committee, while believing that the action of the Republican convention of 1884 is so plain as to require no ruling, has, in deference to these requests, sent out the following letter. It will be noted that it simply repeats the action of the convention of 1884 on this point, which action was embodied in the call for the convention of 1888: "Under the action of the National Republican convention of 1884 (see official proceedings, page 82), whatever has been the manner of nominating members of Congress in any district is the manner in which the Congressional delegates representing that district must be chosen."

Which Was It? Bacon or Shake speare.

The authorship of the dramatic productions attributed to the last of the above named is agitating literary circles to the very centre, but affects the practical masses far less than the momentous question, how to regain or preserve health, that essential of bodily and mental activity, business success and the "pursuit of happiness." We can throw far more light on this latter subject than the most profound Shakespearian can on the question first propounded. If the system is depleted, the nerves shaky; if indigestion or constipation bothers one at times, or constantly; if the skin is sallow and the tongue furred as in biliousness; if there are premonitory twinges of oncoming rheumatism or neuralgia; if the kidneys are inactive—use Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest recuperant of an age prolific in beneficial and successful remedies, remember if malaria threatens or afflicts, that it neutralizes the poison and fortifies the system.

DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY

FOR MEDICINAL USE
NO FUSEL OIL.

Cough in the morning; tickling in the throat difficult breathing; quickened pulse; shortness of breath; tightness in the chest; chilliness in the evening; feverishness; thick expectoration; every one of these is a symptom of consumption.

More than two-thirds of all the deaths in America are caused by consumption. It is almost impossible to cure it in its last stages, but it can readily be checked if taken at the start. Physicians always commend a pure stimulant and for this purpose nothing has ever equalled Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

The celebrated physician Henry A. Mott, Ph. D., F. C. S., says: "Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is free from fusel oil, adulterations or foreign impurities, and these qualities should recommend it to public favor."

AGE OF SWINDLES.

Sermon by Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D.

Financial Trusts—Careless and Indifferent Bank Directors—Speculating with "Borrowed" Capital—Bible Warnings—Dishonesty Never Pays.

"The Age of Swindles" was the subject of Dr. Talmage's recent sermon at the Brooklyn Tabernacle. The text was a portion of the fourteenth verse of the eighth chapter of Job: "Whose trust shall be a spider's web." Dr. Talmage said:

The two most skillful architects in all the world are the bee and the spider. The one puts up a sugar manufactory and the other builds a slaughter-house for flies. On a bright summer morning, when the sun comes out and shines upon the spider's web, bedecked with dew, the gossamer structure seems bright enough for a suspension bridge for supernatural beings to cross on. But alas! for the poor fly, which in the latter part of that very day ventures on it, and is caught and dungeoned and destroyed. The fly was informed that it was a free bridge, and would cost nothing, but at the other end of the bridge the toll paid was its own life. The next day there comes down a strong wind and away goes the web and the marauding spider and the victimized fly. So delicate are the silken threads of the spider's web that many thousands of them are put together before they become visible to the human eye, and it takes four millions of them to make a thread as large as the human hair. Most cruel, as well as most ingenious, is the spider. A prisoner in the Bastile, France, had one so trained that at the sound of a violin it every day came for its meal of flies. Job, the author of my text, and the leading scientist of his day, had no doubt watched the voracious process of this one insect with another, and saw spider and fly swept down with the same broom, or scattered by the same wind. Alas! that the world has so many designing spiders and victimized flies.

The unroofing of banks and disappearance of administrators with the funds of large estates, and the disorder amidst post-office accounts and deficits amid United States officials, have made a pestilence of crime that solemnizes every thoughtful man and woman, and leads every philanthropist and Christian to ask: "What shall be done to stay the plague?" There is a monsoon abroad, a typhoon, a sirocco. I sometimes ask myself if it would not be better for men making wills to bequeath the property directly to the executors and officers of the court, and appoint the widows and orphans a committee to see that the former get all that did not belong to them. The simple fact is that there are a large number of men sailing yachts and driving fast horses, and members of expensive club-houses and controlling country-seats who are not worth a dollar if they return to others their just rights. Under some sudden reverse they fall, and with afflicted air seem to retire from the world, and seem almost ready for monastic life, when in two or three years they blossom out again, having compromised with their creditors; that is, paid them nothing but regrets, and the only difference between the second chapter of prosperity and the first is that their pictures are Murillos instead of Kensetts, and their horses go a mile in twenty seconds less than their predecessors, and instead of one country seat they have three. I have watched and have noticed nine out of ten of those who fail in what is called high life have more means after than before the failure, and in many of the cases failure is only a stratagem to escape the payment of honest debts and put the world off the track while they practice a large swindle. There is something wofully wrong in the fact that these things are possible.

First of all, I charge the blame on careless, indifferent bank directors and boards having in charge great financial institutions. It ought not to be possible for a president or cashier or prominent officer of a banking institution to swindle it year after year without detection. I will undertake to say that if these frauds are carried on for two or three years without detection either the directors are partners in the infamy and pocketed part of the theft, or they are guilty of a culpable neglect of duty, for which God will hold them as responsible as He holds the acknowledged defrauders. What right have prominent business men to allow their names to be published as directors in a financial institution, so that unsophisticated people are thereby induced to deposit their money in or buy their scrip thereof, when they, the published directors, are doing nothing for the safety of the institution? It is a case of deception most reprehensible.

Many people with a surplus of money not needed for immediate use, although it may be a little further on indispensable, are without friends competent to advise them, and they are guided solely by the character of the men whose names are associated with the institution. When the crash came, and with the overthrow of the banks went the small earnings and limited fortunes of widows and orphans, and the helplessly aged, the directors stood with idiotic stare, and to the inquiry of the frenzied depositors and stockholders who had lost their all and to the arraignment of an indignant public had nothing to say except: "We thought it was all right. We did not know that there was any thing wrong going on." It was their duty to know. They stood in a position which deluded the people with the idea that they were carefully observant. Calling themselves directors they did not direct. They had opportunity of auditing accounts and inspecting the books. No time to do so? Then they had no business to accept the position. It seems to be the pride of some moneyed men to be directors in a great many institutions, and all they know is whether or not they get their dividends regularly, and their names are used as decoy ducks to bring others near enough to be made game of. What first of all is needed is that five thousand bank directors and insurance company directors resign or attend to their business as directors. The business world will be full of fraud just as long as fraud is so easy. When you arrest the president and secretary of a bank for an embezzlement carried on for many years, have plenty of sheriffs out the same day to arrest all the directors. They are guilty either of neglect or complicity.

"Oh," some one will say, "better preach the Gospel and let business matters alone." I reply: If your Gospel does not inspire common honesty in the dealings of men, the sooner you close up your Gospel and pitch it into the depths of the Atlantic Ocean the better. An orthodox swindler is worse than a heterodox swindler. The recitation of all the catechisms and creeds ever written, and drinking from all the communion chalices that ever glittered in the churches of Christendom will never save your soul unless your business character corresponds with your religious profession. Some of the worst scoundrels in America have been members of churches, and they got fat on sermons about Heaven when they most needed to have the pulpits preach that which would either bring them to repentance or thunder them out of the holy communions, where their presence was a sacrilege and an infamy.

We must especially deplore the misfortune of banks in various parts of this country in that they damage the banking institution, which is the great convenience of the centuries, and indispensable to commerce and the advance of nations. With one hand it blesses the lender, and with the other it blesses the borrower. The bank was born of the world's necessities, and is venerable with the marks of thousands of years. Two hundred years before Christ the Bank of Ilium existed and paid its depositors ten per cent. The Bank of Venice was established in 1171, and was of such high credit that its bills were at a premium above coins, which were frequently clipped. Bank of Genoa, founded in 1345; Bank of Barcelona, 1401; Bank of Amsterdam, 1609; Bank of Hamburgh, founded 1619, its circulation based on great silver bars kept in the vaults; Bank of England, started by William Patterson in 1642, up to this day managing the stupendous debt of England; Bank of Scotland, founded in 1695; Bank of Ireland, 1783; Bank of North America, planned by Robert Morris in 1771, without whose financial help all the bravery of our grandfathers would not have achieved American independence. But now we have banks in all our cities and towns, thousands and thousands. On their shoulders are the interests of private individuals and great corporations. In them are the great arteries through which run the currents of the Nation's life. They have been the resources of the thousands of financiers in days of business exigency. They stand for accommodation, for facility, for individual, State and National relief. At their head and in their management there is as much interest and moral worth as in any class of men—perhaps more. How nefarious, then, the behavior of those who bring disrepute upon this venerable, benignant and God-honored institution.

We also deplore abuse of trust funds because they fly in the face of that Divine goodness which seems determined to bless this land. We are having the eighth year of unexampled National harvest. The wheat gamblers get hold of the wheat, and the corn gamblers get hold of the corn. The full tide of God's mercy toward this land is put back by those great dikes of dishonest resistance. When God provides enough food and clothing to feed and apparel this whole Nation like princes the scrabble of dishonest men to get more than their share, and get it at all hazards, keeps every thing shaking with uncertainty and every body asking: "What next?" Every week makes new revelations. How many more bank presidents and bank cashiers have been speculating with other people's money, and how many more bank directors are in imbecile silence letting the perfidy go on, the great and patient God only knows! My opinion is that we have got near the bottom. The wind has been pricked from the great bubble of American speculation. The men who thought that the judgment day was at least five thousand years off found it in 1888, 1887, 1886; and this Nation has been taught that men must keep their hands out of other people's pockets. Great businesses built on borrowed capital have been obliterated, and men who had nothing have lost all they had.

I believe we are started on a higher career of prosperity than this land has ever seen, if, and if, and if. If the first men, and especially Christian men, will learn never to speculate on borrowed capital. If you have a mind to take your own money and turn it all into kites, to fly them over every common in the United States, you do society no wrong, except when you tumble your helpless children into the poor-house for the public to take care of. But you have no right to take the money of others and turn it into kites. There is one word that has deluded more people into bankruptcy and State prison and perdition than any other word in commercial life, and that is the word borrow. That one word is responsible for all the defalcations and embezzlements and financial consternations of the last twenty years. When executors conclude to speculate with the funds of an estate committed to their charge, they do not purloin, they say they only borrow; when a banker makes an overdraft upon his institution, he does not commit a theft, he only borrows. When the officer of a company, by flaming advertisement in some religious papers and gilt certificate of stock, gets a multitude of country people to put their small earnings into an enterprise for carrying on some undeveloped nothing, he does not fraudulently take their money, he only borrows. When a young man with easy access to his employer's money-drawer, or the confidential clerk, by close propinquity to account-books, takes a few dollars for a Wall street excursion, he expects to put it back; he will put it all back; he will put it all back very soon. He only borrows. What is needed is some man of gigantic limb to take his place at the curbstone in front of Trinity Church, and when that word borrow comes bounding along kick it clean through to Wall street ferry-boat, and if, striking on that, it bounds clear over till it strikes Brooklyn heights or Brooklyn hill, it will be well for the City of Churches.

Why, when you are going to do wrong, pronounce so long a word as borrow, a word of six letters, when you can get a shorter word more descriptive of the reality, a word of only five letters, the word steal?

There are times when we all borrow, and borrow legitimately, and borrow with the Divine blessing, for Christ in His sermon on the mount enjoins: "From him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away." A young man rightly borrows money to get his education. Purchasing a house and not able to pay all down in cash, the purchaser rightly borrows it on mortgage. Crises come in business when it would be wrong for a man not to borrow. But I roll this warning through all these aisles, over the backs of all these pews, never borrow to speculate; not a dollar, not a cent, not a farthing. Young men, young men, I warn you by your worldly prospects and the value of your immortal souls, do not do it. There are breakers distinguished for their shipwrecks—the Hanways, the Needles, the Caskets, the Douvers, the Anderlos, the Skerries—and many a craft has gone to pieces on these rocks; but I have to tell you that all the Hanways, and the Needles, and the Caskets, and the Skerries are nothing compared with the long line of breakers which bound the ocean of commercial life, north, south, east and west, with the white foam of their despair and the dirge of their damnation—the breakers of borrow.

If I had only a worldly weapon to use on this subject I would give you the fact fresh from the highest authority, that ninety per cent. of those who go into speculation in Wall street lose all. But I have a better warning than a worldly warning. From the place where men have perished—body, mind and soul—stand off, stand off! Abstract pulpit discussion must step aside on this question. Faith and repentance are absolutely necessary, but faith and repentance are no more doctrines of the Bible than commercial integrity. Render to all their dues. Owe no man any thing. And while I mean to preach faith and repentance, more and more to preach them, I do not mean to spend any time in chasing the Hittites and Jebusites and Girgashites of Bible times, when there are so many evils right around us destroying men and women for time and for eternity. The greatest evangelistic preacher the world ever saw, the man who died for his evangelism—the peerless Paul—wrote to the Romans: "Provide things honest in the sight of all men"; wrote to the Corinthians: "Do that which is honest;" wrote to the Philippians: "Whatsoever things are honest;" wrote to the Hebrews: "Willing in all things to live honestly." The Bible says that faith without works is dead, which, being liberally translated, means that if your business life does not correspond with your profession your religion is a humbug.

Here is something that needs to be sounded into the ears of all the young men of America, and iterated and reiterated, if this country is ever to be delivered from its calamities, and commercial prosperity is to be established and perpetuated, live within your means.

I have the highest commercial authority for saying that when the memorable trouble broke out in Wall street four years ago there were $225,000,000 in suspense which had already been spent. Spend no more than you make. And let us adjust all our business and our homes by the principles of the Christian religion.

Our religion ought to mean just as much on Saturday and Monday as on the day between, and not a mere peripheral of sanctity. Our religion ought to first clean our hearts, then it ought to clean our lives. Religion is not, as some seem to think, a sort of church delectation, a kind of confectionery, a sort of spiritual caramel, or holy gumdrop, or sanctified peppermint, or theological anæsthetic. It is an omnipotent principle, all controlling, all conquering. You may get along with something less than that, and you may deceive yourself with it; but you can not deceive God, and you can not deceive the world. The keen business man will put on his spectacles, and he will look clear through to the back of your head and see whether your religion is a fiction or a fact. And you can not hide your samples of sugar, or rice, or tea, or coffee if they are false; you can not hide them under the cloth of a communion table. All your prayers go for nothing so long as you misrepresent your banking institution, and in the amount of the resources you put down more specie, and more fractional currency, and more clearing-house certificates, and more legal tender notes, and more loans, and more discounts than there really are, and when you give an account of your liabilities you do not mention all the unpaid dividends, and the United States bank notes outstanding, and the individual deposits, and the obligations to other banks and bankers. An authority more scrutinizing than that of any bank examiner will go through and through and through your business.

I stand this morning before many who have trust funds. It is a compliment to you that you have been so intrusted; but I charge you, in the presence of God and the world, be careful, be as careful of the property of others as you are careful of your own. Above all, keep your own private account at the bank separate from your account as trustee of an estate or trustee of an institution. That is the point at which thousands of people make shipwreck. They get the property of others mixed up with their own property, they put it into investment and away it all goes, and they can not return that which they borrowed. Then comes the explosion, and the money market is shaken, and the press denounces, and the church thunders expulsion. You have no right to use the property of others, except for their advantage, nor without consent, unless they are minors. If with their consent you invest their property as well as you can and it is all lost, you are not to blame; you did the best you could, but do not come into the delusion, which has ruined so many men, of thinking because a thing is in their possession therefore it is theirs. You have a solemn trust that God has given you. In this vast assemblage there may be some who have misappropriated trust funds. Put them back, or if you have so hopelessly involved them that you can not put them back, confess the whole thing to those whom you have wronged and you will sleep better nights, and you will have the better chance for your soul. What a sad thing it would be if, after you are dead, your administrator should find out from the account books, or from the lack of vouchers, that you not only were bankrupt in estate, but that you lost your soul.

A missionary in one of the islands of the Pacific preached on dishonesty, and the next morning he looked out of his window and he saw his yard full of goods of all kinds. He wondered and asked the cause of all this. "Well," said the natives, "our gods that we have been worshiping permit us to steal, but according to what you said yesterday the God of Heaven and earth will not allow this, so we bring back all these goods, and we ask you to help us in taking them to the places where they belong." If next Sabbath all the ministers in America should preach sermons on the abuse of trust funds, and on the evils of purloining, and the sermons were all blessed of God, and regulations were made that all these things should be taken to the city halls, it would not be long before every city hall in America would be crowded from cellar to cupola.

Let me say in the most emphatic manner to all young men, dishonesty will never pay. An abbot wanted to buy a piece of ground and the owner would not sell it, but the owner finally consented to let it to him until he could raise one crop, and the abbot sowed acorns, a crop of two hundred years! And I tell you, young man, that the dishonesties which you plant in your heart and life will seem to be very insignificant, but they will grow up until they will overshadow you with horrible darkness—overshadow all time and all eternity. It will not be a crop for two hundred years, but a crop for everlasting ages.

I have also a word of comfort for all who suffer from the malfeasance of others, and every honest man, woman and child does suffer from what goes on in financial scampdom. Society is so bound together that all the misfortunes which good people suffer in business matters come from the misdeeds of others. Bear up under distress, strong in God. He will see you through, though your misfortunes should be centupled. Philosophers tell us that a column of air forty-five miles in height rests on every man's head and shoulders. But that is nothing compared with the pressure that business life has put upon many of you.

What shock of delight for men who for thirty years have been in business anxiety, when they shall suddenly awake in everlasting holiday. On the maps of the Arctic regions there are two places whose names are remarkable, given, I suppose, by some Polar expedition, "Cape Farewell," and "Thank God harbor." At this last the Polaris wintered in 1871, and the Tigress in 1873. Some ships have passed the cape, yet never reached the harbor. But from what I know of many of you, I have concluded that though your voyage of life may be very rough, run into by icebergs on this side, and icebergs on that, you will in due time reach Cape Farewell, and there bid good-bye to all annoyances, and soon after drop anchor in the calm and imperturbable waters of Thank God harbor. "There the wicked cease from troubling, and the weary are at rest."

ONE may live a conqueror, a king, a magistrate, but he must die as a man.—Daniel Webster.

How Men Die

If we know all the methods of approach adopted by an enemy we are the better enabled to ward off the danger and postpone the moment when surrender becomes inevitable. In many instances the inherent strength of the body suffices to enable it to oppose the tendency toward death. Many, however, have lost these forces to such an extent that there is little or no help. In other cases a little aid to the weakened lungs will make all the difference between sudden death and many years of useful life. Upon the first symptoms of a cough, cold or any trouble of the throat or lungs, give the old and well-known remedy—Boschee's German Syrup, a careful trial. It will prove what thousands say of it to be, the "benefactor of any home."

Old and reliable Medicines are the best to depend upon. Acker's Blood Elixir has been prescribed for years for all impurities of the Blood. In every form of Scrofulous, Syphilitic or Mercurial diseases, it is invaluable. For Rheumatism, has no equal. Sold by Prentice & Evenson O P O

DRUNKENNESS,

Or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of coffee or tea without the knowledge of the person taking it; is absolutely harmless, and will effect a speedy and permanent cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. Thousands of drunkards have been made temperate men who have taken Golden Specific in their coffee without their knowledge and to-day believe they quit drinking of their own free will. IT NEVER FAILS. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. For sale by FRANK SHEBER, Druggist, 43 W. IN CIRCUIT COURT FOR ROCK COUNTY.—Oliver C. Ford, Mary N. Crossett, and Marietta F. Ford vs. J. Maurice Smith and Mary C. Smith.

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance and by virtue of an execution duly issued from, and under the seal of the Circuit Court for the County of Rock and State of Wisconsin, on the 9th day of January, 1888, and on the 13th day of January, 1888, to him delivered, to enforce the judgment of said court made and entered in the above entitled action, in favor of the above named plaintiffs and against the above named defendants, on the 17th day of January, A. D., 1883, for the sum of $710.10, and duly docketed in the office of the clerk of said court on the 18th day of January, 1883, I have levied upon, seized and shall offer for sale at public auction at the front door of the court house in the city of Janesville in said county of Rock, on the 28th day of April, 1888, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day all of the right, title interest claim and demand which the said defendants, or either of them, had on the 18th day of January, 1883, when said judgment was so docketed in the office of the clerk of said court, or that they or either of them, have had since the said 18th day of January, 1883, or that they or either of them may now have in or to the following described lands and premises, situated, lying and being in the city of Janesville, in the county of Rock and state of Wisconsin, or in or to any part or parcel thereof, to-wit: A piece or parcel of land bounded as follows: On the east, by the east line of land known as the Bunster lot, conveyed by Mary C. Smith to William S. Jeffris, and Malcolm G. Jeffris by deed bearing date October 9th, 1884, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, for Rock county, on the 15th day of October, 1884, in volume 108 of deeds on page 544, and that line continued northerly in straight line to the east and west center line of lot number three (3) of the Janesville Water Power lots in said city; on the north, by the east and west center line of said lot number three (3) of said Janesville Water Power lots, extended from Rock river to the center of River street in said city; on the west by the center line of said River street; on the south by lands owned by F. S. Eldred, John Watson, John Fitzgerald, William B. Britton, Fenner Kimball, Oliver C. Ford, Mary N. Crossett, William S. Jeffris, and Malcolm G. Jeffris. Also that certain piece or parcel of land described as follows: Commencing at a point in the northerly line of West Milwaukee street, one hundred and fifteen and one half feet (115½) easterly from the southeast corner of a lot conveyed on or about April 1st, 1867 by Orsamus B. Matteson to Britton & Harrison, and at the point where the east line of land known as the Bunster lot conveyed by Mary C. Smith to William S. Jeffris and Malcolm G. Jeffris by deed bearing date October 9th, 1884, and recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds for Rock county on the 15th day of October, 1884, in volume 108 of deeds on page 544, intersects said north line of said West Milwaukee street, thence northerly along the east line of said land so conveyed by said Mary C. Smith to said William S. Jeffris and Malcolm G. Jeffris by said deed last above mentioned, and known as the Bunster lot, and that line extended northerly in a straight line to the lands formerly owned by one Raymond and now owned by O. H. Fethers and M. G. Jeffris; thence easterly on the southerly line of said lands, so owned by said Raymond, and new owned by said O. H. Fethers and M. G. Jeffris, and that line extended, in a straight line, to the center line or middle of Rock river; thence southerly along the center line, or middle of Rock river, to the north line of West Milwaukee street, extended across said river; thence westerly along said north line of said West Milwaukee street to the place of beginning.

Also lots number twenty-one (21) and twenty-two (22), of the Janesville Water Power lots, being that piece of land on the west bank of Rock river, in the city of Janesville bounded on the north by the lands of O. C. Ford and Henry W. Meyer, and on the south by the lands of the Janesville Cotton Mills; also the undivided three-fourths of lots number ten (10), eleven (11), twelve (12), thirteen (13), fourteen (14), fifteen (15), sixteen (16) and seventeen, of the Janesville Water Power lots, being that piece of land on the west bank of Rock River in the City of Janesville, bounded on the north by the lands of the Janesville Cotton Mills, and on the south by the lands of Charles W. Hodson.

Dated March 6, 1888.

LOCAL MATTERS.

A large size Jackson refrigerator, nearly new; also smaller refrigerators and ice chests at Sanborn's stove and furniture store, 18 and 20 North Main street.

SPECIAL.—A good investment—having 1,000 pieces of the celebrated original Jamestown dress goods and the popular goods made by Folwell Bros., of Philadelphia, both being makes which we can recommend for service, and usually sold at from 24 to 30 cents a yard to reduce the line, having an overstock, we offer the lot at 22½ cents a yard. No one should pass by this opportunity to get a desirable dress for little money, and one that you can depend on for wear. We will continue to sell the above named goods at 22½ cents until the line is closed. J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

Parties wishing awnings or tents of any kind made or repaired will do well to leave orders with me. I have a large assortment of cloth to select from.

BLAIR & GOWDEY.

LOST—Between Court Street bridge and the residence of D. P. Smith, first ward, a paper package containing blue coat and vest. Finder will be rewarded by leaving the same at this office or with D. P. Smith.

The Williams fruit farm of 35 acres; including 15 acres of small fruit, in fine condition, and buildings that cost about $4,000, can be bought now for $6,000. Immediate possession given. $3,000 of purchase money can remain on property at 6 per cent. C. E. BOWLES.

Please bear in mind that prices in fuel to-day are for cash down. People are well paid for bringing in the money. We have visited the markets from this city to the coal mines and believe that no city in the United States has been better provided with fuel at low prices during the entire season than Janesville. There are many who are so well informed regarding the situation that they have cheerfully paid cash down knowing that a dealer could not afford to carry an account for a moment.

BLAIR & GOWDEY.

TO RENT—A farm of 160 acres ½ mile south of city. New house and three large barns. Also warehouse and blacksmith shop on Court street and the Ogden block entire or in part.

CHAS. T. WILCOX.

TO RENT—Two pleasant unfurnished rooms with closet.—107 South Jackson street.

FOR RENT—A Ten Acre Tobacco Farm Milton avenue—just outside the city limits. Apply to Wm. Fathers, 27 North Main street, Janesville, Wis.

$500,000 to loan in large or small sums, at 6 to 7 per cent interest.

C. E. BOWLES.

Gentlemen can have their last seasons spring overcoats and suits renovated so as to look like new, at T. E. Addy's, 54 North Franklin street.

I will discount $400 from price paid two years ago for a fine little farm of ten acres adjoining the city. This offer holds good for one week only.

C. E. BOWLES.

THE REPUBLICAN COMMITTEES.

An Enthusiastic Meeting at the Club Rooms Last Evening.

The Republican Convention and Caucuses Called for March 29th and 27th

The republican city and ward committees held a harmonious and enthusiastic meeting last evening at the Republican Club rooms. Ogden H. Fethers, Esq., presided and M. M. Phelps acted as secretary.

The question of holding the republican city convention and caucuses at an early day was thoroughly discussed, and it was finally voted unanimously to hold the ward caucuses on Tuesday evening, March 26th, at 7.30 o'clock, and the city convention on Thursday afternoon March 29th, at one o'clock.

After comparing notes regarding minor details of the local campaign the meeting adjourned.

—"This is the liveliest town, and the best town to do business in that I have visited yet." So said the compiler of the Wisconsin Gazetteer after three weeks spent in collecting his information regarding Janesville business men. As he had already visited most of the large cities of the state the compliment was not a meaningless one.

—Messrs. Pomeroy and Kellor have opened the Pomeroy warehouse near the Pleasant street crossing for the assorting and storing of tobacco for growers. The work will be done by experienced hands and the tobacco will be put in shape to sell readily when the market opens. Prices from one to one and a half cents per pound. Call and see them.

—Mr. James Mendenhall returned yesterday from Ashton, Dakota, where he has spent the winter with his daughter, Mrs. F. F. Hammond. He is much pleased with Dakota, and reports that the town of Ashton is just now enjoying a boom on natural gas, which has recently been discovered in liberal quantity, and is already being utilized for lighting and heating purposes.

—It has finally been decided to place the keys to the fire alarm boxes located at the engine house in the boxes, where they will remain until further orders. In this connection Chief Engineer Blunk desires to caution all persons not to meddle with the key or box unless for the purpose of turning in an alarm of fire on the side of the river where the fire is located. For instance the box at No. 2's house must not be pulled for a fire on the west side of the river, and vice versa.

—While the Home Mastodon entertainment was in progress last night smoke was noticed throughout the lower part of the opera house, and many in the audience were just on the point of making a rush for the door. A single word would have brought on a panic. One of the ushers, realizing that the smoke must come from somewhere in the lower hallway, slammed shut the door leading into the foyer; and then rushed down the stairs, finding that the whole trouble had been caused by a handful of programmes lighted by a carelessly dropped match. It was a trifling incident but the ushers' cool head was probably all that prevented a serious scare.

—Professor Frank H. Smith, of Chicago, is in the city, representing the Home Library Association. Mr. Smith is the district manager for Southern Wisconsin. He will make a thorough canvass of the city. The Home Library Association is located on Dearborn street, occupying half of the Hamburg block, at No. 407 to 425. The association has a paid in capital of $100,000. The officers of the company are: President, R. S. Peale, the well known publisher; F. J. Schutte, secretary, and M. A. Donahue treasurer. The plan of operation includes a five years' membership, with which is furnished a catalogue of some 3000 standard publications and 52 volumes elegantly bound in one, embracing a great variety of practical works, and making a complete book of reference. The fact that the association now embraces more than 200,000 members, is a sufficient guarantee of its popularity. The association is financially strong, and entitled to public confidence. Prof. Smith is not a book agent, but is a gentlemanly representative of a first class publishing house, whose object is to supply all classes of standard works in small quantity and wholesale rates. The Home Library association was organized and incorporated in 1884, and is in no way connected with the National Library association.

DEATH OF PETER MYERS.

He is Suddenly Stricken Down at Nine O'Clock this Morning.

At a few minutes after nine o'clock this morning the report that Peter Myers was dead, was rapidly circulated on the street, and its truthfulness was soon verified. Mr. Myers was about the house as usual this morning and after partaking of a light breakfast, went out to attend to the marketing, as was his usual custom. He returned shortly before nine o'clock and sat down in the office to rest. Shortly after he walked across the room and complained of not feeling well, and said he would go to his room. Mrs. Myers attended him, not feeling alarmed as he was subject to such attacks. She gave him some warm water which acted as an emetic and he laid down on the bed saying that he felt better. He was left for a moment with his daughter while Mrs. Myers went into the dining room, when he suddenly grew worse. Mrs. Myers returned at once and lifting him up sent for a physician, but he died before medical aid arrived. Heart disease is supposed to be the cause.

The deceased was 69 years old, he leaves a wife, four sons and one daughter.

Mr. Myers was a native of France. He came to this country and located in Stark county, Ohio, in 1832. A year later he removed to Buffalo, New York, and learned the business of a butcher, in which business he was engaged until 1844, when he located in Janesville, where he opened a meat market and conducted the same for fifteen years. In 1860 he built the hotel which he has since occupied, known as the Myers house. The building was substantial and ornamental, and with the addition of the opera house block has long been recognized as among the finest business blocks in the state. Mr. Myers possessed a mania for building and it can truthfully be said of him that his enterprise and energy expended in this direction has accomplished much for the reputation which the city has long enjoyed in that particular. He not only enjoyed building but he always built well; and his brick blocks and buildings in various parts of the city, will long endure, as a faithful record to the thoroughness of his work. Mr. Myers possessed a liberal share of public spirit, and his name and money have been identified with many of our manufacturing interests. Life to him meant activity, and until the very moment of its close, he was recognized as a busy man. He gave personal attention to the most minute details of his business, and succeeded in accumulating a handsome fortune. It is an old truism and as true as old that "Some men are never thoroughly appreciated until they are gone." Mr. Myers belonged to the class of men who lacked thorough appreciation. The lavish expenditure of his money in erecting buildings, on which he could not hope to realize a fair margin of interest, has given Janesville a reputation for business blocks second to no inland city in the state. As the years go by these blocks will serve as a constant reminder of the man who expended his money so freely in the city which was his home, because of the interest he felt in home prosperity. He will be missed by the city at large because of his enterprise in the direction named. He will be missed in business circles because of his activity. To the home where his loss will be the most keenly felt generous sympathy will be extended.

Arrangements for the funeral are not yet completed. It will probably not occur until Sunday.

THE WEATHER.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer indicated 11 degrees above zero. Clear with north wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 25 degrees above zero. Clear with north wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 25 and 27 degrees above zero.

WORK OF FIRE DEPARTMENT.

As Given in the Annual Report of Chief Engineer Henry Blunk.

The Improvements Made and Cost of Maintaining the Department the Past Year.

At the last meeting of the common council Chief Engineer Blunk submitted his annual report of the fire department covering the operations during the year ending with date. The report is quite lengthy, giving details of all fires and an itemized account of the expense in maintaining the same. He states that the department responded to twenty-three fire alarms during the year, giving details of each fire; mentions the accident which befel Mr. W. E. Spicer at the Norton fire on the morning of February 20th, as the only accident to the members during the year, and makes official note of the death of the hook and ladder horse, placing the loss to the city at $225. He reports the apparatus in good repair at this time; says the department has 1,000 feet of new rubber hose, purchased recently, giving the city 2,000 feet of good rubber hose, 1,000 feet of cotton hose not very reliable, and 2,000 feet of old rubber hose. The horses are in good condition. Relating to the department expenses he says:

In April last, when I took possession of the office of chief engineer, there was a balance in the fire department fund of $2,561.83; during the year this amount was increased by the tax levy and license money so that it amounted to:

Balance on hand from 1886	$ 2,561 83
Tax levy for 1887	7,000 00
Transferred from the license money	4,500 00
Total fund	$14,061 83

OLD BILLS PAID.

During the year there have been paid from this fund old bills contracted previous to my official term, amounting to $1,128.07.

The regular and incidental expenses for the year have been as follows:

REGULAR EXPENSES.

A. W. Bauman, engineer No. 1 steamer	$ 600 00
John Slightam, engineer No. 2 steamer	600 00
Elmer Main, hauling No. 1 steamer	300 00
John Slightam, hauling No. 2 steamer	300 00
Elmer Main, Boarding horses	263 60
John Slightam, boarding horses	150 00
H. Blunk, Salary as chief engineer	100 00
J. F. Hutchinson, salary as 2nd assistant	75 00
Firemen's pay roll	1,700 00
Total	$ 4,099 60

The chief gives items of incidental expenses which amount to $779.93, making a total of regular and incidental expenses for the year of $4,879 53.

PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS.

Considerable money has been expended during the year in permanent improvements. The following is an account of the same:

Henry Blunk, screen doors and windows at No. 1	$ 7 50
John Ose, screen doors and windows at No. 2	10 75
The Goodrich Co., 500 feet "White Anchor" hose	475 00
Shopbell & Norris, building material	43 25
Gutta Percha and Rubber Co., 500 feet "Maltese Cross" hose	475 00
Silsby Mf'g. Co., sliding pole at No. 2's house	23 10
Alex. Currey, labor on pole at No. 2's house	5 50
John Griffiths, stoves, pipe, etc	91 91
Shopbell & Norris, building material	1 25
James Sutherland & Sons, curtains and fixtures	5 22
Mrs. Ellis, two andirons	3 00
E. B. Chandler, fire alarm plant	3,262 50
E. J. Kent, painting signs, fire alarm	6 70
R. C. Yeomans, small hose for engine house	6 00
E. B. Chandler, extra fire alarm supplies	13 85
Total amount	$ 4,433 01

RECAPITULATION.

Fire Department fund 1887-8	$14,061 83
Old bills paid	$ 1,128 07
Incidentals, current year	779 93
Fixed appropriations	4,099 60
Permanent improvements	4,433 01
	$10,445 64
Balance on hand at date	$ 3,616 19

The most important improvement made in the department during the year, is the introduction of the fire alarm telegraph. This has been in operation a little more than one month, and its great benefit to the department and the city is already apparent. As time progresses and additions are made to the number of boxes its use as a means of saving property from destruction by fire will be more fully appreciated by the general public. The council cannot be too liberal in making appropriations for extending this alarm system.

He calls attention to the amount of money paid by our people in premiums for fire insurance. The people of Janesville pay annually $50,000 or more in fire insurance premiums. By a careful comparison of the losses sustained in this city it is evident that Janesville is a profitable city for the companies doing business here. Our people pay more for fire insurance than for the support of the entire city government. The fire department when the water works shall have been accepted, should be so organized and equipped that our people will be safe in cancelling at least one-half of the expense of insurance.

He calls attention to the expense now incurred by the city in boarding horses. Some arrangements should be made to lessen this expense. With the regular paid men in the engine houses, he is of the opinion that one half of this expense can be saved by the city feeding its own horses.

He recommends the placing of a full paid man on the hook and ladder truck, and calls attention to the condition of the truck.

Regarding a large bell for the alarm system he suggests that it be placed on the hose tower at the west side engine house. This tower could be increased in height a few feet at much less expense than the bell tower could be strengthened, and at the same time the tower could be so arranged as to form a good ventilating shaft for the entire building.

He closes his report as follows:

I desire in closing this report to extend my sincere thanks to Alderman Charles Horn for the valuable aid rendered me during the past year. Upon being elected an alderman in April last, Alderman Horn, who was then First Assistant Engineer of the fire department, and had just been re-elected to that office for the present year, previous to his election as an alderman, resigned his position in the department. The council failed to call a special meeting of the department to fill the vacancy. At the request of many members of the fire department Alderman Horn continued to act as Assistant Engineer. He has not only rendered valuable assistance to me, but to the city and the fire department. His orders at fires have been respected and his services have been appreciated by the fire department. He is entitled to special thanks at your hands.

I also desire to extend my thanks to Second Assistant Engineer J. F. Hutchinson, for the able manner in which he has performed his duty during the year; and also to Marshal Hogan and the special police; to the officers and members of the fire department for their promptness and efficient service at fires. Last but not least, to you, gentlemen of the common council, I express my hearty thanks for the many courtesies extended, and especially to the individual members of the fire department committee of the council, I am under many obligations for kindnesses.

Respectfully submitted,
HENRY BLUNK,
Chief Engineer.

Janesville, Wis., March 5th, 1888.

THE HOUSE CROWDED.

Janesville Home Mastodons Play to Enormous Business.

There was an audience at the opera house last evening that made two doorkeepers absolutely necessary. It even led one of the Mastodon's to suggest fastening a chain to Treasurer Holdredge's leg. At ten minutes to eight not a seat in the house was left unsold. "Standing room" tickets had to be resorted to, and when the curtain rose an audience had assembled such as the opera house never before saw.

As everybody knows, the attraction was the entertainment of the Home Mastodons. The first part opened with an overture and chorus from "Pirates of Penzance" Will Cody, adorned with a spade-tailed, blue velvet coat, was then called out and sang, "A High Old Time;" while Charley Blay won applause and a bouquet by his ballad "Till Snowflakes Come Again."

"Dan," said Bert Clarke, after the applause had died away, "did you know that I used to be an actor?"

"Why, no," responded Interlocutor Bennett. "Did you?"

"Oh, yes. I used to play Yum Yum, but I played it so bum bum that they gave me the run run with a gun gun."

Responded Mr. Bennett: "Harry Wallis will now sing 'Honey Don't You Grieve' while the audience overcomes their feelings of faintness."

Mr. Wallis' song was well rendered as was that of Mr. Bennett, which followed. Mr. Bennett's was entitled "The Song That Reached My Heart," and concluded with a refrain in which the entire company joined.

Al. Smith's darkey melody, "Susie Warner," and Ed. Ehrlinger's pathetic recital of his experiences with "The Coon that Lived Next Door" were both warmly received. Among the hits of the evening were the songs by C. N. Vankirk and George Paris. Mr. Vankirk's was the charming tenor solo, "Marguerite," while Mr. Paris chose "Roll on Deep Ocean." Both were applauded to the echo Mr. Vankirk being obliged finally to appear before the footlights the second time. The first part closed with the stirring chorus "O Hail Us Ye Free."

Part second was composed of specialties. There was a very pretty song and dance entitled "Lawn Tennis," by Messrs. Smyth, Clark, Ehrlinger, Putnam, Holdredge and Cody; D. D. Bennett, Al. Smith and Bert Clark did some "lightning" mind reading and blackboard work, and Cody and Galvin appeared in "Fun on the Quiet." They did acrobatic work that would have done credit to professionals; and ended by an exhibition of kicking that left the irritable young man whose view was obstructed by three tall spring hats completely in the shade.

The clog dancing by Thomas Goldsborough was decidedly clever. The same was true of the Irish reels and walk arounds by Messrs. Goldsborough and Cody; and both received liberal applause.

Ed. Ehrlinger's new topical song came out in the course of "Songs and Sketches. As Ed. sang, his partner, Smyth, turned his attention to a view a la Frank Beard, of the gas pond by moonlight, and achieved excellent results.

The performance closed with "Matilda's Picnic," in which Harry Wallis appeared as "Uncle Ephriam," Al. Smith as "Aunt Chloe", Ed. Ehrlinger as "Matilda," C. S. Putnam as "Billy Newton," and Bert Clark as "Pete Parker."

During the evening there were selections by the orchestra that deserve the most hearty praise. That which preceded the third part was especially fine, and received loud applause.

To-day at 12:30 the company, orchestra and all, took the train for Rockford. Their performance this evening will be different from that of last evening in many ways. One difficulty under which the boys labored last night was the lack of a stage rehearsal. This will be made up for to-day by an afternoon of work in the Rockford opera house. The street parade will be given about five o'clock.

WILL STAY IN JANESVILLE.

Wallis Bros'. Patent Will Not Affect Their Location.

Wallis Bros. have been granted a patent on their cabinet bath and there has been considerable speculation as to whether or not the deal looking to their removal to Beloit would be reopened. It will be remembered that money was raised and a building furnished by Beloit capital; but that there was a disagreement on account of the patent's not yet having been secured.

One of the firm told a Gazette reporter last evening that no removal was in prospect. "We consider ourselves permanently established in the city," he said, "and expect to stay. The difficulty concerning the patent was due to incorrect specifications. Our cabinet bath is the first of the kind ever put on the market, but in the first specifications we had a clause that conflicted with those of a vapor bath used for other purposes."

Notice.

Having disposed of the stock and fixtures for the estate of the late Samuel Fathers, to my brother. Wm. Fathers, all accounts due the estate, must be settled by April 1st. May be paid at the store or at my place of business. All accounts not settled by April 1st, will be placed in the hands of a collector.

THE NEW SCHOOL HOUSE.

The Council Adopt the Plans and Specifications of the Second Ward School House,

And Instruct the Board of Education to Proceed with the Building.

The common council held an adjourned meeting last evening for the purpose of considering the plans and specifications for the proposed new school house in the second ward. Mr. President Fathers occupied the chair, all the aldermen being present except Aldermen Casey, J. B. McLean, Rooney and Smith.

Ald. Judd, of the committee on schools' stated that the committee had partly examined the plans and specifications of the proposed new school house in the second ward, and so far as the committee could ascertain they were satisfactory. He offered the following order:

WHEREAS, The Board of Education of the city of Janesville, Rock county, Wisconsin, have filed with the clerk of said city, plans and specifications for a school building in the second ward of said city, and have recommended the adoption of said plans and specifications by the common council of said city. Therefore, it is ordered by the mayor and common council of said city that the said plans and specifications of said school house, as recommended by said board, be and they are hereby adopted as and for the plans and specifications of said school building and heating thereof.

Pending the reading of the order Ald. J. B. McLean and Smith came in and took their seats.

The order was then adopted by a unanimous vote.

Ald. Judd offered the following order:

WHEREAS, The qualified electors of the City of Janesville, Rock county, Wisconsin, at a special election, duly called and duly noticed and held in said city on the 27th day of June, 1887, voted to build a new school house in the second ward, of said city, at a cost not to exceed $10,000 for the school house and $2,000 for the heating thereof and the issuance of bonds therefor, and

WHEREAS, plans and specifications of a school house in the second ward, of said city, and the heating thereof have been recommended to the common council of said city by the board of education of said city. Therefore be it ordered by the mayor and common council of the city of Janesville, that the board of education of said city be and they are hereby authorized and empowered to advertise for bids and proposals for the erection of said school building at a cost not to exceed $10,000 and for the heating thereof at an expense not to exceed $2,000 according to the plans and specifications filed by said board of education, and to reserve the right to reject any and all bids and to recommend to said council the acceptance of such bid or bids as they may think proper, and the letting of such contracts in relation thereto as they deem advisable.

The order was adopted by a unanimous vote.

On motion the council adjourned.

IN PERFECT HARMONY.

Flattering Comment On the Welsh Singers.

Those who enjoy the music of nature more than trills, runs and roulades, will be pleased with the Swiss Prize Singers to-morrow evening. In speaking of them the New York Sun says: The audience was treated last evening to a genuine musical feast. It was furnished by the Welsh Prize Singers—a double quartette. It was the first appearance in America of this band of singers. Throughout England and Wales they are famous as concert singers. Their voices are very fresh and clear, and they sing in perfect harmony. They are destined to become as popular here as in their own land.

PANCAKES IN VARIETY.

On cold winter mornings pancakes of all kinds hold an important place at the breakfast table; the buckwheat cake the most cherished of all. When properly made this is the most delicious of all the griddle cakes, but it has been against it when made from yeast or risen over night that it was difficult to make light and sweet, and that disagreeable effects frequently followed its eating. It is found that by the use of the Royal Baking Powder to raise the batter these objections have been entirely overcome, and that buckwheat cakes are made a most delicious food, light, sweet, tender and perfectly wholesome, that can be eaten by anyone without the slightest digestive inconvenience. Once tested from the following receipt no other will be used: Two cups of buckwheat, one cup of wheat flour, two tablespoons of Royal Baking Powder, one half teaspoon of salt, all sifted well together. Mix with milk into a thin batter, and bake at once on a hot griddle.

The purest and richest syrup is made by dissolving sugar in the proportion of three pounds of sugar to one pint of water. Many persons prefer the flavor of syrup made of Orleans sugar to that made of the white.

Rice griddle cakes are very delicious. The rice is cooked until perfectly soft, drained dry, mashed with a spoon until the grains are well broken up. For each cupful of rice take two eggs, one pint of milk, one heaping teaspoonful of Royal Baking Powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and flour enough to make a thin batter.

For hominy cakes take two cupfuls of cooked hominy, and crush it with a potato masher until it is a smooth mass. Add one level teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of Royal Baking Powder, and one cupful of flour. Stir together; then add by degrees one quart of milk, and lastly three well beaten eggs. Bake in thin cakes.

Very delicate and delicious cakes are made by allowing two teaspoonfuls of Royal Baking Powder and one-half teaspoonful salt to one quart of milk, and sufficient corn meal, mixing all into a smooth, thin batter; no eggs or butter are used for these. The cakes bake quickly to a rich, deep brown, and are extremely tender and light.

A very delicious, sweet pancake is made by taking one pint of sweet milk, four eggs, two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, two tablespoonfuls melted butter, one teaspoonful of Royal Baking Powder, and flour enough to make a moderately thin batter. Beat the eggs, whites and yolks separately, until well frothed, stir the butter, sugar and one cupful of flour, into which the baking powder has been mixed, into the yolks, then add the milk. If needed, add more flour. Bake in small cakes, butter each one as it comes from the fire, place four in a pile with very thin layers of any kind of sweet jelly between and powdered sugar over the top. They should be baked very thin and four served to each person.

OBITUARY.

MRS. LETTIE M. WALRATH.

Died at their home in the town of Fulton, Wednesday evening, March 7, at 10:30 o'clock, of heart disease, Lettie M. wife of Willis J. Walrath.

Deceased was the daughter of Curtis Chapin and was born at Fulton, Wis., July 31st, 1868. Attending the village school and taking an active part in the many social gatherings, entertainments and Sunday school, she had by her pleasant ways endeared herself to us all. She was married to Mr. Walrath Jan., 5, 1888 and going to his home away from old friends to live she soon won the hearts of all his friends. From conversations with her friends ere her death, we know she was ready to go. Two sisters, Mrs. E. N. Jessup, of Fulton, and Mrs. T. S. Jessup, of Janesville, are left with the stricken husband and parents to mourn her death.

JAMES MONTGOMERY.

James Montgomery who has been confined to the house by sickness during most of the past winter died at his home in the second ward this morning. Death resulted from asthma.

Deceased has no relatives in this city. Several members of his family live in Chicago and telegrams have been sent them asking what arrangements will be made regarding the funeral.

MICHAEL GOLDIN.

One of the best known citizens of the town of Rock, Michael Goldin, died at his home near the School for the Blind yesterday, aged eighty-two years. He left a daughter, who is now in California, and two sons one of whom is treasurer of the town of Rock.

Funeral services will be held from St. Patrick's church to-morrow morning at nine o'clock.

GLEN CROSBY.

Glen Crosby, only son of Supervisor G. H. Crosby, of the town of Turtle, died in Chicago on Friday of last week. His death resulted from the bursting of an artery.

We have sold Ely's Cream Balm about three years, and have recommended its use in more than a hundred special cases of catarrh. Thomas J. Morrissey of this city is the tall man of the St. Paul club. He would be considered a tall man anywhere for he stands six feet two inches in his stocking feet, and is broad shouldered to correspond. When he put on the boxing gloves with Factory Inspector James Moore the other day the ground is said to have trembled. The St. Paul Globe says:

Morrissey was born in Janesville, Wis., the birthplace of so many prominent ball players, twenty-seven years ago. His first professional engagement was with the Bay City, Mich., Northwestern league team in 1882. The next year he joined Milwaukee, and in 1885 he was a member of the Washington Eastern leaguers. He opened the season of 1886 with Oswego, and, when the team disbanded, joined the Eau Claire Northwestern league team and helped the latter to make Duluth hustle to keep first place. Last year Morrissey played the season through with Milwaukee. His batting average has been over .300 every year except one. Morrissey covers first base in fine form, being probably the best man in the profession to pull down high throws. His weakness is base running; he is too conscientious to commit larceny, except on holiday occasions.
